| Liquid Hack I hear many people concerned they won't get back the CEL they stored on Liquid. Withdrawals are disabled .. CEL underperforming BTC & ETH (-40% within a month..) Today I heard a lot concerns that Celsius might want to hold the CEL price low as long as the equity raise is ongoing due to the cost of CEL on CEL interest .. maybe it's worth explaining them once again that we are generally a fan of rising CEL prices. |                |                             |                                 |

I mentioned this already to Alex but if there's a way to phrase "Celsius is a good place to park your Stables as dry powder/money on the sidelines" could help us. We are seeing outflows of stables in a time when it's our hottest commodity.

FYI the Liquid Hacker stole and immediately sold $5m worth CEL dropping the price from $6.30 to $5.50 within minutes .. we bought them <$5.75 to prevent further damage .. nothing you can tell our community but just so you're aware NFTs continue to grow EIP 159 launched, fees didn't go down much but now ETH gets burnt per transaction which has lead to ETH to have roughly the same net inflation schedule as bitcoin Bitcoins Stacks (STX) network is getting adoption to bring ethereum like capabilities to the bitcoin network Poly network hacker returned the funds. That was a crazy episode in cryptoland. But it shows how defi still has smart contract risk. This is why we audit every bridge and protocol we work with Black rock announced they're holding stock in a crypto mining company Coinbase announced they will invest Corp treasury in crypto and buy crypto work 10% of profits going forward Covid delta has really been picking up.
